

ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS WAS MOST NOTABLE OCCASION

SPOKE BEFORE THE NOBEL PRIZE COMMITTEE IN CHRIS-TIANIA TODAY.

INTERNATIONAL PEACETALK

His Audience Most Distinguished, Listened Carefully To His Splendid Speech.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Christiania, Norway, May 5.—Roosevelt today discussed the "International Peace" before the Nobel Prize committee, the members of the Royal family and other persons distinguished in political, educational, commercial and social life of Norway.

It was the Nobel Prize committee that in 1906 conferred upon the then President of the United States the medal and money awarded in recognition for his services in bringing to conclusion the Russo-Japanese war.

This occasion was the feature of Roosevelt's visit to Norway and one of the most notable of his European tour.

Roosevelt's discourse was made with something of a solemnity of religious service in the largest auditorium of Christiania, the National Theatre, and in the presence of King Haakon, Queen Maud, members of the cabinet and parliament and hundreds of the most prominent, progressive and influential persons in the kingdom.

The address was received cordially and at its conclusion John Lund, the Vice President of the Nobel Prize committee, paid tribute to the speaker and to the country from which he came. He declared that the entire world had reason to be grateful to the United States for there are millions from Europe who have found happiness and prosperity which the old world was unable to afford them.

Need of Industrial Peace.

It is with peculiar pleasure that I stand here today to express the deep appreciation I feel of the high honor conferred upon me by the presentation of the Nobel peace prize. This gold medal which formed part of the prize I shall always keep, and I shall hand it on to my children as a precious heirloom. The sum of money provided as part of the prize by the will of Alfred Nobel, the illustrious founder of this world-famous prize system, I did not, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, feel at liberty to keep. I think I enthusiastically and properly that in most cases the recipient of the prize should keep for his own use the prize in its entirety. But in this case, while I did not act officially as president of the United States, it was nevertheless only because I was president that I was enabled to act at all; and I felt that the money must be considered as having been given me in trust for the United States. I therefore used it as a nucleus for a foundation to forward the cause of industrial peace, as being well within the general purpose of your committee; for in our complex industrial civilization of today the peace of righteousness and justice; the only kind of peace worth having, is at least as necessary in the industrial world as it is in the domestic. There is at least as much need to curb the cruel greed and avarice of part of the world of capital, to curb the cruel greed and violence of part of the world of labor, as to check a cruel and unhealthy militarism in international relationships.

When Peace May Be Evil.

We must ever bear in mind that the great end in view is righteousness, justice as between man and man, nation and nation, the chance to lead our lives on a somewhat higher level, with a broader spirit of brotherly good will one for another. Peace is generally good in itself, but it is never the highest good unless it comes as the handmaid of righteousness; and it becomes a very evil thing if it serves merely as a mask for cowardice and sloth, or as an instrument to further the ends of despotism or anarchy. We deplore and abhor the bully, the brawler, the oppressor, whether in private or public life; but we deplore no less the coward and the voluptuary. No man is worth calling a man who will not fight rather than submit to injury or see those that are dear to him suffer wrong. No nation deserves to exist if it permits itself to lose the stern and virile virtues; and this without regard to whether the loss is due to the growth of a heartless and all-absorbing commercialism, to prolonged indulgence in luxury and soft effortless ease, or to the dedication of a warped and twisted sentimentality.

Moreover, and above all, let us remember that words count only when they give expression to deeds or are to be translated into them. The leaders of the Red Terror prattled of peace while they steeped their hands in the blood of the innocent; and many a tyrant has called it peace when he has scourged honest protest into silence. Our words must be judged by our deeds; and in striving for a lofty ideal we must use practical methods; and if we cannot attain all at one leap, we must advance towards it step by step, reasonably content so long as we do actually make some progress in the right direction.

Now, having freely admitted the limitations to our work, and the qualifications to be borne in mind, I feel that I have the right to have my words taken seriously when I point out where, in my judgment, great advance can be made in the cause of international peace. I speak as a peace-loving man, and whatever I now advocate I actually tried to do when I was for the time being the head of a great nation, and keenly jealous of its honor and interest. I ask other nations to do only what I should be glad to see my own nation do.

Treaties of Arbitration.

The advance can be made along several lines. First of all there can be treaties of arbitration. There are, of course, states so backward that a civilized community ought not to enter into an arbitration treaty with them, at least until we have gone much further than at present in securing some kind of international public action. But all really civilized communities should have effective arbitration treaties among themselves.

CHARGES OF BRIBERY MADE IN ELECTION OF SENATOR

He also received $500 as his share of the "jackpot," as the corruption fund was called. The records show that on the date mentioned, May 25, White shifted his vote to Lorimer with others and Lorimer was elected.

NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION OPENS

In Chicago Tomorrow And Dr. Harry Pratt Judson Will Be The Presiding Officer.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, May 5.—The intellect and the power of the Baptist Church in the North are concentrated in Chicago today. On every train distinguished clergymen and influential laymen from many states have been pouring into the city, with even the hotel corridors for once in their history might be mistaken for the vestibules of churches, so numerous thereabout are men of clerical men.

The occasion of this great gathering of the leaders of the Baptist denomination is the Northern Baptist convention, which is to assemble tomorrow for a week's session. The convention will hold its meetings in the Hartley gymnasium at the University of Chicago and the presiding officer will be Dr. Harry Pratt Judson, president of the university. Between 2,000 and 4,000 delegates and as many more visitors are expected to attend.

No fixed program has been arranged for the convention, but all the church work, which includes the three great organizations of the Baptist Church, the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and the American Baptist Publication Society, will be reviewed. These three large societies organized for worldwide mission work, and for publication interests, handle large sums of money annually and control operations of wide proportions.

For many years these several societies held their own annual sessions, making their own report to themselves. Four years ago it was decided to organize one great convention of the Northern Baptists, to include the thousands of churches throughout the country. The initial meeting was held in Washington, D. C. and Governor Hughes of New York was honored with the presidency. Since then annual meetings of the convention have been held in Oklahoma City and Portland, Ore.

ADVOCATES OUTDOOR SCHOOLS IN CITIES

Anti-tuberculosis Association Starts New Movement for Betterment of Conditions.

An "outdoor school" for every city in Wisconsin!

This is the slogan of a new movement started by the Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis association in the interest of good health for the tens of thousands of school children of the Badger state.

Statistics gathered by the society show that 70 per cent of all school children are defective in some particular, and 5 per cent are sufferers from consumption, glandular trouble, pneumonia or are predisposed toward tuberculosis.

By providing an outdoor school in each city the defective children are given the opportunity by the municipality of regaining health without discontinuing their education. The outdoor life which routes disease results in a wonderful improvement in the child's capabilities, and a most hopeful progress in school work.

At the solicitation of Mrs. Kander, a member of the School Board, the Association is now preparing the case and pleading the cause of the physically handicapped children of school age in Milwaukee.

The cost of the city is insignificant. The School Board is expected to furnish the "school machinery," or one or two teachers and equipment, while outside assistance is obtained to provide for food, clothing, books, etc., in Chicago thirty children were instructed for one month in an outdoor school for about $300 and the results obtained were remarkable in gain of weight, and improved mental physical vigor.

The anti-tuberculosis association will be glad to give all assistance at its command, statistics, figures and advice to any city or school board in Wisconsin desiring to take up the plan for outdoor schools.

THOUGHT LYNCHING WAS MUCH TOO GOOD

Archie Northway Might Have Been Treated Roughly by Infuriated Capturers Had Rope Been Handy.

Nothing for some time past has so aroused the citizens of Janesville as did the act of the degenerate Archie Northway yesterday morning. The crowd that assembled in the Court House park when he was caught was most vehement in their disgust and some even suggested that he be strung up without the preliminary of going through the form of a legal trial. Sentiment expressed on all sides is heard hoping that he will be given the limit sentence allowed by the law when he is arraigned in court. Owing to the absence of Judge Mohr from the city this morning it is not probable that he will be arraigned in court today unless it be late this afternoon. The prisoner has stated that he wishes to plead guilty and the court has appointed William Dougherty to act as his attorney. District Attorney Fisher will file the complaint against him and ask that he be allowed to plead guilty if he desires at once.

CROP OUTLOOK WAS REPORTED AS FAIR

Farmers and Others Say That the Present Prospects Are Better Than Expected.

Pioneer farmers of Rock county are of the opinion that crops are not damaged nearly so much as had been anticipated and predict that the recent and present cold and severe weather has only set back a Spring start that was fully three weeks ahead of the average time for this section. Heavy rains are declared to not be greatly damaged and fruit trees are showing symptoms of budding and developing in a way to prove them not damaged as much as had been feared.

"We have been about three weeks ahead of our usual time," declared a well known farmer this morning, "but the present weather puts us back more than that. Oats and barley were not so greatly damaged but the root crops may rot in the ground if it suddenly turns warm. The old saying is a dry March always makes money and just wait until the harvest time. Some fruits are undoubtedly much damaged and to a greater extent in some localities than in others, but everything else looks favorable to me."

"This has been a most unusual Spring. I don't remember such a March for twenty years. About thirty years ago we had a February like March of this year and the farmers started to sow their grains in February. Then it snowed in March and we didn't get Spring until far into April."

The first report from the state board of agriculture offers the encouragement that Wisconsin farmers will gather a good crop. Despite recent storms and sudden changes in the temperature it is possible that the crop will strike a fair average.

From an agriculture point of view, the early part of the present year has been full of disappointment. The snow fall of the past winter gave ample protection to the growing crops, and with the apparent opening of spring early in March, grass and grain crops commenced growth at least one month in advance of average seasons.

Favorable conditions continued until the middle of April when grasses and grain had reached ordinary early June standards, and three fruits were in full bloom. The disastrous freeze of April 17 and 23—when the thermometer showed the respective records of 30 and 24 degrees above zero—killed nearly all fully matured blossoms of apples, cherries and plums; seriously injured the chances of crops of bush fruits and strawberries; and killed the leaves and young shoots upon forest trees. Spring grains and young clover were not permanently injured.

The fall of snow about the time of this freezing weather did much to prevent loss to strawberries and spring grain crops. We estimate the loss to apples at 80 per cent; cherries and plums at 90 per cent; bush fruits at 65 per cent, and strawberries at 50 per cent. Notwithstanding these unfavorable conditions, the present report shows farm crops to be in better than usual condition on May 1st.

Our reports from the state at large give the following estimates: 1900 representing normal.

Winter wheat	95
Winter rye	93
Clover meadows	97
Other meadows	95
Pastures	95

Rain is much needed in the northwestern part of the state.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SEE THE COMET

Not Visible Again For Seventy-Five Years—Comes Up Tomorrow at 2:41 A. M.

Comet Rises Friday Morning at 2:41.
Visible to the Naked Eye
Until 3:55.

If you have not yet viewed Halley's comet you should do so or wait for seventy-five years until it appears again. The comet is now visible in the eastern sky above the path of the rising sun. Face directly east and then allow your eyes to wander in a few feet to the left. There it is. That big thing with the long tail. Friday morning it will rise at 2:41 and will be visible until 3:55.

Keep your eyes on it—for after a few days it will be seventy-five years before you will have another opportunity to view it. That tail which seems to be perhaps three or four feet long in reality is 25,000,000 miles in length.

Silhouetted against the sky you would see the wanderer and hard by, and a little more to the left, Venus. You will not need glasses if the sky is clear in the East. After this week, however, the comet will be difficult to observe without a telescope, because it moves into the path of the sun and is swallowed up in its powerful rays.

From 3 a. m. to 3:30 is the best time to see it.

Here are some of the dimensions of the wanderer furnished by astronomers: Present distance from earth, 77,000,000 miles; length of tail, 22,000,000 miles; speed per second, 41 miles.

Beloit, Wis., May 4.—Many residents on Pleasant street were annoyed today by some sneak thief who stole their bottles of milk. The milk thief has been in evidence in other parts of the city.

Rochester, N. Y.—Since the overwhelming victory of James S. Havens over the republican boss, George W. Aldrich, for congress, his name has been frequently mentioned as a democratic candidate for governor this fall.

The Hughes republicans declare that although Havens' election shows that the people of the district are dissatisfied with certain features of the republican machine in the state, Governor Hughes stands out more strongly than ever.

CLOTHESWRINGER

Cloth Hangs on Hook and is Twisted by Turning Handle.

Kitchen appliances are now getting so numerous that there is even a machine for wringing out wet clothes. The machine was invented by a Maryland man and consists of a supporting base which is screwed on the edge of the table. Running through this support is a vertical crank shaft with an open hook at the bottom and a space in the base for the point of the hook to turn in view the crank is operated by the handle at the top. A wet cloth is doubled and the loop cast over the hook. Then while one end of the cloth is held stationary in the hand the crank is turned and the cloth twisted till every drop of water is wrung out and it is thoroughly dry. This wringing process is much more satisfactory than the hand method, being so much more thorough. In cleaning windows, for instance, when it is desired to wring a wet cloth dry, the machine will make it so dry that there is no chance of leaving streaks on the glass.

The Optimist's Corner Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

If there is in mankind any one attribute of mind, almost universal, and as hurtful as common, the abolition of which in the individual would transmute many a dark cloud into brilliant sunshine and strew his path with roses, it is that of regret for past mistakes, or what seem to be mistakes to the jaundiced eye. We not rashly, as Emerson says, that we may speak wisely. Shelley tells us that if to sin is weak, it is weaker to regret it instead of learning thereby to do better. The tyro at the piano strikes the wrong note in order to learn the right one. History and literature bristle with this thought, as the armies of the Lord bristle with spears at the overthrow of the Pharaoh and his red legions. Scarcely an author of depth can be found, either ancient or modern, who has not quarried out of his experience this solid block of wisdom in one form or another, the possession of which by any person must, as inevitably as sparks, fly upward and lead pellets drop downward, relieve his mind of a huge slice of the weight that depresses it. It is a necessity of health, as well as an attribute of wisdom, to look on the bright side as often as possible, replacing the somberness of regret with the bright hues of learning.

PRESIDENT TAFT DEFENDS COURT

TELLS ST. LOUIS BUSINESS MEN
"DEMAGOGIC CANT" IS A PERIL.

ASKS FOR SQUARE DEAL

President Taft Defends Supreme Court Against Charge That It Favors Corporations—Takes Bryan to Task for Opposing Hughes.

St. Louis, May 5.—President Taft gave a vigorous denunciation of William J. Bryan for the latter's criticism of the appointment of Gov. Charles D. Hughes of New York as associate justice of the United States Supreme court. Mr. Taft decried the "cant of the demagogue" and the "disposition of public journals" to make unjust charges against men in public life.

"All I am speaking for is justice and a square deal," he said, "not especially for myself, for, indeed, I am in a position where I can get along better than some of the rest without it. But I am appealing for justice in dealing with all classes."

Mr. Taft was speaking at a luncheon given by the Business Men's league.

Reception is Enthusiastic.
The president's reception here developed the greatest enthusiasm that has been displayed toward him on the present trip. A great crowd welcomed him on his arrival in the Union station and the street was well lined with cheering and flag-waving enthusiasts as he was driven to the St. Louis club, where he was entertained at breakfast.

From the club the president went to the Collisium, where he addressed a not particularly enthusiastic gathering of farmers, who half filled the hall.

Attends Two Ball Games.

A luncheon at the Southern hotel followed, after which the automobile procession, with the president at its head, proceeded first to the National league grounds, where the Cardinals were pitted against Cincinnati, and afterward to the American league grounds, where the Browns were engaged in a contest with the Clevelanders. Only a short time was spent at each park.

In the evening President Taft was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the banquet of the St. Louis Trade club.

Defends Supreme Court.

In his address before the Business Men's club the president said in part: "Now, I do not like to be invidious in my remarks, or to quote what may have been a misquotation, but I did hear or see a criticism of one appointment on the ground, as I understand it, that the appointee was not an impecunious foe of wealth and corporations. I think perhaps that criticism has been misunderstood and that the utterer of it did not intend to give it the meaning that thus stated it seems to have. I believe that with all Democrats and Republicans, Republicans and Democrats, who are patriotic citizens, and we are all that—are in favor of having upon that bench men who are free of nothing but what is wrong and are in favor of equal justice to everyone, whether that be an organization of men doing business under the law and using the instrumentality of a corporation to promote the industries of the country, or be the humblest citizen struggling with his hands to earn a livelihood for his family."

"I do not mean to say that men by their habits of life may not acquire a bent or a prejudice in one direction or another, and that it is not as wise to select for the highest tribunal men who have not such a bent and who have not in their make-up the danger of prejudice to one interest or against another. But I do mean to say that there is in the public journals, and in what I may call the cant of the demagogue a disposition to charge that kind of a bent in favor of corporate wealth and corporate greed and corporate monopoly when there is no justice for the charge at all."

Change Must Be Made.

"The theory that if you give the poor workman the right to carry his case, involving $25, through four courts to the Supreme court, you are securing the same of human justice is one that has been advanced on many a legislative floor by many a demagogue with great effect, and is an example of what is a real demagogic argument, because he ought to know, and everybody ought to know that it is of more benefit to him that he should have the case decided against him in the first court and finally settled, even at the risk of injustice, than that he should be dragged through four courts and spend a great deal more money in trying to vindicate his right. We have got to make a change in that, gentlemen. We have got to arrange it so that cases are decided promptly."

CONSERVING VITALITY.

The eminently successful man is tireless. Napoleon, Cromwell, Newton, Wellington, Gladstone, Edison—every man who has accomplished a great work—has been distinguished for enthusiastic, indefatigable devotion to some idea that seemed to possess him. A man is not a genius because he is a great worker, but genius accomplishes little without concentration, persistent industry. And this capacity is dependent upon good sleeping and good eating, chiefly. The man who spends three-fourths of his daily draft upon his stock of vitality for digesting unwisely selected, improperly eaten and improperly digested food, wastes his capital. If this draft be excessive and his constitution weak he may become bankrupt in time. It is possible to think too much about what one eats, but for one who injures himself by worrying about his digestion a thousand suffer from ignoring it. A merry heart is better than a long face, but intemperance is not a necessary condition of mirth.

"Poltausend!" again is translated "the deuce!" and "good gracious!"

Dresses For the Graduate, Party Gowns and For the Brides

Many women prefer to choose their fine lingerie dresses from our unequalled stock because the designing is far superior to anything they can make, and because the values are better at the prices than they can secure elsewhere. Women are beginning to realize that it doesn't pay to have their dresses made, when they can secure a perfect fit and a perfect gown all ready to put on at such moderate prices as those quoted at The Big Store. Already those who anticipate their needs are making selections, and it's well to remember that selections are always best early in the season.

Unequaled Display of Lingerie Dresses $4.50 to $40

DRESS OF FINE MULL $4.50

This is one of the greatest lingerie dress values ever offered. It is made extra full, full tucked flounce, two bands of round thread lace insertion. Waist handsomely trimmed with embroidery insertion, pattern yoke with large medallion, sleeves trimmed with insertion, can be worn either short or long. Comes in one-piece style, white, light pink, light blue, all sizes.

PRETTY DRESS AT $6.00

A clever little model of soft mull, trimmed with insertion and fancy lace and bands of Val. lace. One-piece style with normal waist line effect, waist with yoke, sleeve fancy, to be worn either short or long.

BEAUTIFUL EMBROIDERED MULL DRESS $8.00

Dress made of embroidery pattern, trimmed with tuckings and Val. lace insertion, medallion yoke, new sleeves. Comes in white, pink, light blue or lavender; one of the most striking dresses ever sold at $8.00.

POPULAR MODEL IN FINE LAWN AT $9

One-piece style, all-over tucking in bands, prettily set with insertion, full flounce, novelty sleeves, handsome yoke.

DAINTY GOWN OF PEARLINE $18.00

This model of sheer fine Pearl-line lawn, made with the new tailored flounce. Has rows of insertion of Val. lace and fine linen thread cluny set in novel manner, producing a clever effect and decidedly different from the ordinary. Yoke of cluny and Val. lace with collar to match. Sleeves are elaborate, ¾ length. An excellent graduation dress.

GOWN OF FRENCH MULL $22.00

One-piece style, trimmed with round thread German Val. lace, full ruffled embroidered flounce and rows of German round thread Val. lace insertion. Yoke made with embroidery medallion, fine tuckings and hand embroidery and insertion on waist.

GOWN OF LUSTROUS BATISTE AT $40

The foundation of this gown is a beautifully sheer lustrous batiste closely resembling silk. Adequate description of this dress so that one could form any correct idea of its beauty is next to impossible. It is one of those creations that women know at a glance as way above the ordinary. The trimmings are of round thread beautifully fine Val. lace with novelty bands of white mercerized insertion extending from shoulder to hem of skirt both in back and front. The insertions are set in diamond effects, broken on at intervals with lace designs and on the flounce are two-inch rows of fine tucking on the bias. Above this are 7 rows of fine insertion running around the skirt broken at intervals with insertions running into the rows in circular form. The bodice is made with finest tuckings and lace insertions, lace yoke and elaborate hand crocheted open-work in front and shoulders. Sleeves are of beautiful lace and insertion. This is a gown that would be impossible for anyone but the most expert dressmakers to make. It is a creation that shows the hand of a master designer.

While it is a common thing to find stocks of summer Wash Dresses, it is decidedly uncommon to find a stock so replete with the latest novelties and so comprehensive as that shown at The Big Store. The long and short of it is, no other store hereabouts would be warranted in making such a large investment. It would be idle talk for us to emphasize thoroughness and greatness of our stock if it was not the most important showing of lingerie and wash dresses outside of the very largest cities. But it is a simple matter to substantiate all of our claims; simply call and be your own judge.

INCREASED FREIGHT RATES. The fact is generally recognized that an advance of from 10 to 15 percent will be made on freight rates to meet increased expenses due to the advance in wages and dissatisfaction will be heard all along the line.

When an industry advances prices to meet increased cost of production, or when a farmer enjoys the benefits of an advancing market, no complaint is heard, although the burden of advance may fall heavily on the consumer, but when a transportation company finds it necessary to increase its revenue, every last man feels that he has a grievance, and the authorities are besieged with demands to stop the unholy proceedings.

The president of one of the eastern roads has this to say on the situation. It is a plain statement of cold facts, as every fair-minded man will recognize.

"The sum added to payrolls must be made up in rates. No man can sharpen his pencil fine enough to figure what increase a five or ten percent addition to freight charges would mean on a pair of shoes, a suit of clothes or a barrel of flour. In the aggregate the sum to be so made up is enormous; but distributed where it belongs, on all people, it will be hardly noticed.

"Material used by the roads have gone up as well as wages. The railroad is a victim of the higher cost of living as surely as the individual. If an employee is entitled to higher wages because his living expenses have advanced, why should anyone deny that we are entitled to higher charges?"

"For some unexplained reason it is the habit in this country to take pride in the prosperity of an industrial concern and to submit to its prices without question, but to resist as an encroachment on personal liberty any effort to exact a fair rate for transportation. Yet a railway's service affects directly every person. It must be allowed to prosper and pay dividends or it cannot keep up its property in a way to safeguard life and facilitate business."

things to keep not earnings up. It will stop buying material and will use up what it has. The number of employees will be reduced, even at the risk of impairing service, by discharging every man who can be spared. The train service will be cut down. Improvements not actually required will not be made and lower standards of maintenance must be adopted. It will not be taken up when they become worn, as long as they are safe. The road may become uneven and unkempt, but it will receive enough to insure reasonable safety to passengers.

"This state of affairs has been seen. Such conditions prevailed after the recent panic, when expenses were cut down to make up part of the loss in revenues. They will prevail again if necessary to maintain dividends."

COMPENSATION IN CROP ALARMS. "A first effect of a storm, a gross delinquency, or a big failure in business is to cause people to take extreme views of the consequences arising from such occurrences. A clearer view establishes the true proportion of the event. This has been the case with the cold wave that swept over the country nearly a week ago. By this time the silver lining to the cloud is visible, and there are numerous reassurances for those who once feared the worst.

"Among the things that count on the other side are the fact that the season in its entirety is nearly all ahead of us, leaving ample time for the farmer to change his policy as to crops, acreage and methods. Meanwhile, also, the weather has been cool, thereby saving much of the frosted crops that might otherwise have been lost by a sudden reversal of temperature. The Southern Railway reports that the Georgia peach crop, which lies largely near its own lines, has not been seriously damaged. Northern vineyards and orchards are finding that more has been saved than was originally believed to be possible.

"Finally, the cold wave has killed many of the pests which infest crops to the extent of millions of dollars of damage each year. This item of compensation has not as yet been dwelt upon, but it is none the less significant. At a time when people are inclined to look too much on the dark side of things, it is well worth while centering attention upon these redeeming aspects of the perspective lengthens and the outlook grows brighter."

This is a sensible and optimistic view of the crop outlook, from a Wall Street financial journal, and emphasizes the fact that things are never half so bad as they seem. The old promise of seedtime and harvest has never failed in fulfillment, and while some localities may suffer, the productive area is so large that supplies will meet demands. The railroads have redeemed many of the waste places and caused them to bud and blossom for the benefit of all the people, and when the fruit crop falls in Michigan the west comes in with an abundant supply and makes good the shortage.

PARTING OF THE WAYS. The limit of endurance has been reached in the upper house of congress, and the spirit of disloyalty, which has hampered the administration during the session, has at last culminated in an open rupture which may be far-reaching in results.

After exhausting every effort to conciliate the insurgent forces, and secure the passage of measures to which the party was pledged, the senate leaders are obliged to take matters into their own hands in an attempt to save the legislation promised.

If successful, it will be by a bare majority, opposed by the united forces of democracy and disloyalty. If defeated, the insurgents will be responsible, but whether success or defeat results, it means a widening of the breach, and the parting of the ways.

The insurgents fought their battle in the lower house, and won. They are about to test their strength in the senate and results will be watched with interest, for success to them means complete demoralization of the republican forces, and democratic victory.

"wets" carried the day by a large majority, and today 150 republicans are running in full blast, with thirty republicans yet to be granted. That's better than one saloon for every one hundred people, Janesville is still behind the procession.

The boys of Janesville are planning a crusade all by themselves. The services which are to be held here by Dr. Perry Edwards Powell should be well attended and the doctrine of his teachings heard by every young boy in the city. It is a good cause and one which the citizens generally can endorse, this upspringing of the youths of today into good, honest God-fearing men.

No punishment can be so severe for the thief who was arrested yesterday for a dastardly crime. Public safety demands that this class of criminals be shut up, and a life sentence, if permitted, would be in keeping with the assault committed. The court will be commended for giving the prisoner the full benefit of an extended sentence.

Some one asks, "Are the dry states really dry?" and points to the fact that the internal revenue on spirits increased $10,000,000, or nearly 10 percent, during the past nine months. Moral reformation by law has never been a marked success.

Halley's comet is still creating a furor throughout the scientific world and now it has appeared to the average citizen in all its glory. For seventy-five years it has been lost sight of only to again arrive on scheduled time just as predicted years ago.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER by WALT MASON. (Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

"My luck is here," in anguish wailed the man who forty times had failed; "the gods that willed the HARD guide poor mortals' LUCK MAN feet have soaked me often, and repeat. All things upon this whirling sphere go wrong and foremost when I'm near; if I had luck, like other guys, I'd see me like an albatross rise; I'd bet a twenty-cent cigar I'd hitch my wagon to a star."

At first the chastisement is grievous, but afterward it worketh the peaceful fruit of righteousness and progress.

Chinese Custom. May 9 is called "Mother's day," and it is gaining in popularity everywhere. Here's to mother! An exchange adds, "If mother has a whole day in her honor, wouldn't it be appropriate and altogether just to give father—say fifteen minutes?"—San Diego Leader.

Natural Inference. The print paper families, however, is not disturbing the beneficiaries of the paper schedules. The more paper costs, the more reasonable the profits become that congress guaranteed to them—Milwaukee Journal.

Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE.

DISTURBANCE. "Why should this happen to me? Why should I be selected for this trying ordeal, this harrowing experience?" That has been the cry of sorrow stricken souls always and everywhere. Why? What is the meaning of disturbance in human life? Has it some mystery? Surely. The universe is so built and man is so built that only through disturbance can progress come or peace. To illustrate: In the springtime the plowshare tears up the earth. As the plow goes rippling through the soil and the harrow is used to rake and mellow it one might fancy the soil to say: "Why this disturbance? Why select me for this mistreatment?"

The answer of the protest is the harvest of the autumn. And again: How did you get the home in which you live? Some man went out to the woods and hewed down the tree. And the saw went through the wood, and the plane went over it. And the forest might have complained, saying: "Why this disturbance? Why select me to suffer?"

The answer to the protest is the roof-tree over your head. And again: How can you rear the stately column save as the dynamite attacks the quarry and the granite saw and the machine polishes go over it? As you create this disturbance the quarry might cry out, "Why me?"

Even so is human life. Were there no disturbance, no pain, no sorrow, no bereavement, there would be neither progress nor betterment—and men would die of the monotony of living.

I knew a rich woman who lost her only child. She cried out against God. But when her anguish was over she began to plan a memorial to her boy. She built a home for crippled children.

I knew a man who lost his fortune. He was wild over his loss. But when he had pulled himself out of the wreck he began to plan a new life. He profited by past mistakes. The man did not regret his fortune, but he regained his life. And his new life was cleaner and happier than the other.

I knew a young man who was beggared by the failure of his father's business. At first he was savage and rebellious. Afterward he pulled himself together and made a manly man.

THE WAY WE JUDGE PEOPLE. "Griet is a very unobservant man." "You mean that he doesn't see the same things that you do."

First Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds

The Hanson Furniture Company of Janesville are about to build another factory to take care of their business. Their present plant has been appraised at over $40,000 and with the new building will make a total security of over $100,000.

To pay for this addition the company has executed a first mortgage on its plant to the president and cashier of the Rock County National Bank, as Trustees, to secure not to exceed $10,000 of bonds, in which the company agrees to carry at least $50,000 insurance payable to the trustees.

These bonds are for $100, $200 and $500, pay 6% interest, payable semi-annually in April and October, and run from 3 to 8 years.

We recommend the title to the property and had charge of the drawing and execution of the mortgage and bonds. A number of these bonds have been sold to employees of the company and others in this city. The unsold portion can be obtained from us and we recommend them as a safe 6% investment.

WOMAN TO SPEAK ON PROHIBITION EVILS

Marguerite Isabelle Rice, Evangelist, Will Hold Street Meeting Here at 7:45 This Evening.

Yesterday was "W. C. T. U. Tag Day" and tonight Marguerite Isabelle Rice, the woman evangelist, will hold a street meeting and address the multitude on "The Blight of Prohibition." The meeting will be held either at the corner of River and Milwaukee streets or on the Corn Exchange square at 7:45. Mrs. Rice is said to be a natural orator of exceptional ability and has preached the gospel in every state and territory in the union and in many of the provinces of Canada. She has been evangelist for sixteen years and has held permits for street speaking from four successive mayors of New York City. In the recent local option fight in Indiana and Ohio she took an active part and she has just come east from a tour of Kansas, which she declares is the worst "dry" state in the union and Oklahoma where whiskey is sold in cocoanuts and even in coffins. She spoke at the opera house in Monroe Tuesday night and will probably hold several meetings here before starting northward on her tour of Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Russell, who live near the county farm, drove to the city yesterday afternoon and left their rig at the East Side hitch barn about five o'clock. Mrs. Russell also left a handbag hanging in the ladies waiting room. It was hanging on the rack when she returned but investigation showed that two ten and two five dollar bills had been removed from a small purse which was included among the contents. The manager and his assistants, who had all been in the room of the establishment at the time, could remember a number of people who had been in the waiting room but none on whom any suspicion could possibly rest.

PRETTY WEDDING IN MONROE YESTERDAY
Solemn High Nuptial Mass Celebrated at Monroe for Miss Nellie Martin and J. F. Hennessy of Elgin.
[Special to this Gazette.]
Monroe, Wis., May 4.—One of the prettiest and most impressive wedding ceremonies that has been held in St. Victor's church for some time, was performed by Rev. Thomas Hennessy yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, when Miss Nellie Martin became the bride of Mr. J. F. Hennessy of Elgin, Ill. A beautiful wedding march was played by A. Fred Truchel on the newly installed pipe organ and solo singing during the occasion was rendered by Dr. P. L. Hodges and Miss Anna Blatz. A large number of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present. The marriage was solemnized with high mass and the ring service was used. The bride wore a beautiful gown of Marquise satin over white silk and carried a high bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas. Miss Alice Martin, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and was attired in pink silk with a bouquet of pink carnations. The service was followed by a five-course wedding breakfast at the Martin home. The tables were decorated in pink and white carnations.
Miss Martin is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Martin of this city. For several years past she has been a bookkeeper at the Elgin watch factory. Those of friends both here and at Elgin, will wish her a happily wedded life. Numerous gifts were presented to the bride, among which was $100 in gold from her father. There were a large number of out-of-town guests present.
Teachers Re-appointed.
All of the present corps of high school and grade teachers have been re-elected for the coming year. Prof. G. H. Haverson, who has been superintendent of the city schools for the past year, has been very successful in his work, raising the standard of the school work to a higher class than it has been heretofore for some time. His salary will be $1,750, the same as it was last year. Five teachers who did not get a raise last year, were given an increase of $5 this year. The board of education is well satisfied with the work in all the grades and in the high school and did not hesitate to re-elect all of the present teaching corps.
J. H. Eaton of this city, who has identified himself with Salvation Army work, left this afternoon for Milwaukee, where he will join Adjutant Scott for a trip to West Africa. Sunday Mr. Eaton will give a talk Sunday evening on "The God Made Man vs. the Self Made Man." Mr. Eaton, since his conversion in New Orleans, has been back here for a visit and has made it known to his new friends that he is in earnest and proposes to give the best of himself to his new work.
John Howe has received word from Chicago that his daughter, Miss Mae Howe, is ill with diphtheria and has been placed under quarantine. Miss Howe has been taking a course in the Presbyterian hospital in that city to act as a nurse and has been sick with tonsillitis for several days. The physicians in the institution assure Mr. and Mrs. Howe that their daughter will have the best of care and medical treatment during her illness.
Henry Ludlow has returned from Chicago, where he has been taking treatment in the Presbyterian hospital for several weeks. He is getting along very nicely but will be unable to look after business affairs for some time. His daughter, Mrs. F. B. Luchinger, accompanied him home.
The Misses Grace Travis and Welthe Stauffacher left yesterday afternoon for a short stay with friends in Jamesville.
Miss Adela B. Williams has returned from Chicago where she has been attending grand opera.
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Weber and Miss Nellie Murphy are visiting relatives in Chicago.
Mrs. Herman Regez and Miss Fannie Glaser are visiting friends at Judd.

EAGLES WILL HOLD ELECTION TONIGHT
Delegations to State Convention at Sheboygan Will Be Elected at Meeting.
During the past few days, a quiet campaign has been carried on by candidates who wish to represent the local order, 24, F. O. E., at the coming state convention to be held at Sheboygan, June 20, 26, and July 1. As is generally known, Jamesville has elected a delegate to the convention to hold the election for 1911 and to furnish funds to bring the convention here and provide entertainment and entertainments. At the regular meeting tonight, delegates will be elected and other matters in connection with the project of bringing the convention to this city if possible will be settled. Whether or not the attempt will be successful rests in great measure with the delegates and it is expected that the meeting will bring out every member of the order who has the interests of the order at heart.

TENNIS COURTS ARE READY FOR SEASON
Organization Now Has About Thirty
Members and Expects Enjoyable Year.
The Y. M. C. A. tennis courts have been rolled and marked, the posts to support the nets are placed in position, and everything is in readiness for the season. The club is a club which engages in no tournaments with out of town organizations this year but in divisions will undoubtedly arrange for small contests with the Edgerton players. The club now has about thirty names on its roster.

TWELVE APPLIED

September 28.
Twelve foreign-born persons, all of them Germans now residing in and around the city of Edgerton, made application to Clerk of Court Jesse Earle this morning for their second naturalization papers. Their examination for citizenship will be held in the circuit court in this city on September 28. Among the applicants are Adolf March, William Sell, August Plantz, Albert Rusek, Carl Tritton, August Goldsard, Albert Prorath, Wilhelm Nickel, all of Edgerton.

RYAN AND SHARKEY LOOK GOOD TO FANS
Local Boys Expected to Set Fast
Pace in Route Monday Night—
Troubles-Dravy Go Promises Well.
Jack Ryan of Fond du Lac, who meets Tommy Dally of Chicago in the final of the Jamesville Athletic Club's boxing program scheduled for next Monday, Jack Brunkhorst, mitchener of the Fond du Lac club, to fight Young Sharkey at Ashland Saturday night but because of inability to make connections and get to this city in time for his bout Monday, was forced to pass it up. He may also appear at Fond du Lac May 12 but the details of this argument have not been arranged.
Doubler Jeger, also of Fond du Lac, who looks up with Kid Sharkey of this city, also seems to be a favorite in the north. On May 12 he meets Young Anton of Milwaukee and is also matched to fight at Appleton. Doubler is looked on as a corner by the north state fight circles and all are boasting him as a champion. Fans in this city are eagerly awaiting his appearance with Kid Sharkey of Jamesville, who has been boxing under the name of Cox, and many are confident that Jeger's aspirations will be given a sudden jolt.
Tommy Dally of Chicago, who was substituted for the Canadian champion, George Lenthum, is one of Harry Gilmore's string and is touted to be Lenthum's superior. While he has not had the ring experience of the Canadian champ, he has fought him two hard draws and after a few more bouts will be sent against the best they have in the light weight division.
Jimmy Brady and Kid Troubles, both of Chicago, have the reputation of being about as willing mixers as there is in the game at 125 pounds. Gilmore is managing Troubles and has been hurling challenges right and left in an effort to give Troubles an opportunity to meet the recognized leaders in the feather weight class. Since both the local boys, Ryan and Sharkey, were notified that they would be given a place on Monday's on May 12.

[Special to this Gazette.]
Jamesville, May 4.—The Jamesville public school will give their annual entertainment in the opera house Friday evening, May 12, under the supervision of Miss Marjorie Wallace, director of music. Following is a synopsis of the play and the cast of characters.
Scene—Garden of Queen Titania.
Opening tableau—Sunrise in Fairyland. Fairies are asleep. Albin, ruler of the Goblins, coming upon them, steals Sunshine, carrying her away to make a meal for his hand. Fairies then awaken and while rejoicing because it is "Glad Festival Day" discover tracks which prove to be those of their bitterest foe, the "Goblin." The queen then discovers that Sunshine is gone, and concludes that she has been stolen by the evil "Goblin." The latter then bids the fairies to help them. The prince, hearing this, tells the queen of the desperate situation. She thinks of a plan which the union between the Goblins and Fairies may be dissolved. Her plan is put to a test, the enemies are captured and joy reigns again in Fairyland.

3000-FREIGHT HANDLERS THROW DOWN TRUCKS
Men Go on Unauthorized Strike While Their Committees Are Presenting Demands.
Chicago, May 4.—Losing patience because of the slowness in which their demands were being answered, 3,000 railroad freight handlers throw down their trucks and went out on a strike. Though the strike was unauthorized and the men were ordered back to work, the situation is said to be hopeful and a strike vote will be taken today on all the railroads.
Committees representing the men on the different roads presented demands to the managers for a flat increase of ten per cent. for freight handlers and clerks. While the committees were in conference, the men grew impatient and threw down their trucks, declaring they would not work until they get a definite answer to their demands.
When the railroad officials learned of the threat they made the committees an offer of two cents an hour increase for all men who are paid by the hour and five dollars a month for the clerks on monthly salaries. The committees representing the men on the Rock Island accepted the compromise and signed an agreement, but on all the other roads the offer was rejected.

Heart Specialists at Washington
Smoke as They Discuss Tobacco.
Washington, May 4.—With smoke curling from their unlighted cigars, heart specialists from throughout the country who are attending the congress of American physicians and surgeons gathered to discuss whether the prolonged and excessive use of tobacco meant "sudden death." At the close of a lengthy debate they were far from reaching an agreement as to what was the real effect of the use of tobacco on the heart.
San Francisco, May 4.—The first attempt to pick a referee for the Jeffries-Johnson match resulted in a deadlock. After a half-hour of breezy interchanges Sam Berger and Jack Johnson decided they could not agree. Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason, the promoters, finally allowed the question to go until May 16.

MINERS AT DANVILLE QUIT.
Foreigners Force Others Out of Mines—Clash Is Feared.
Danville, Ill., May 4.—Confronted by starvation and believing the operators were discriminating in favor of English miners, foreign miners held a mass meeting at Westville, made inflammatory speeches and decided that unless they could work nobody else could.
One thousand strong, they moved on the Hansen Coal company and posted notices that nobody would be allowed to work in the mines. All the men at work quit.
Not a man is working in any big mine. The situation is acute and trouble is expected.
State mine workers' officials have been appealed to by the local officers to quiet the excited foreigners and afford relief.
CARNEGIE SAYS COUNTRY SAFE.
Quotes From Postal Card—Pays Tribute to Taft.
New York, May 4.—Before sailing for his summer home in Scotland, Andrew Carnegie had a few words to say about the tariff question.
"In my opinion greater progress has been made by the latest tariff revision toward the perfect tariff than ever before," he observed. "I can only express my opinion by quoting something I read on a postal card lately: 'Let the scowlers scowl, let the howlers howl, and the politicians go to it. The country's all right, and I know it.'"
Mr. Carnegie highly complimented President Taft, saying that he was a model president.

OLIVE OIL.
Under the Pure Food Law all oil made from olives is pure olive oil, yet there is as much difference in olive oil as there is in butter.
Cheap olive oil is made from olives that through cause of decay, insects or storms fall to the ground. Sound, healthy olives stay on the trees until ripe, like our apples. They are then gathered, the oil pressed without heat. This is virgin olive oil. The second pressing is obtained with steam and hot water, which is known as the refined oil. The rich flavor and medicinal properties are found only in the virgin oil which is of a greenish-yellow color. It is very nutritious. Used in nervous diseases is a mild laxative; has a great reputation as a remedy for stones in the bladder, and is a skin food and complexion beautifier through its action on the liver. The supply of this virgin oil is always limited. It is quickly bought up for medicinal purposes and found only in drug stores. Mr. Pfeiffer, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, personally tests our olive oil. You are therefore positive of obtaining the true virgin oil. We sell it at 40c one-half pint, 75c a full pint bottle. Get it at our store, The Binder Drug Co., Milwaukee & River streets. The Drug Store that makes a specialty of Drugs.

WHITE SLAVE TRADE EXPOSED.

Prisoner Describes "Stockades" Where Young Girls Are Kept.

New York, May 2.—Harry Levenson, who is under indictment for selling young girls into lives of shame, told the district attorney that there are at least three "stockades" in New York, in each of which from five to ten young girls are kept ready night and day for instant delivery wherever they may be wanted. His counsel was with him during the interview and confirmed it.

Little effort, said Levenson, is made to recruit women of the street. The "stockades" are filled from the host of young girls who are unhappy at home, or who live narrow lives on their own earnings and look for pleasure, good clothes, gayety and freedom from restraint.

Well-dressed women make a business to frequent cheap restaurants, moving picture theaters, sentimental matinees and the bargain counters to single out such cases, and first winning attention with an invitation to dinner, then describe the once and pleasure of the alternative they propose.

32 HEROES ARE GIVEN MEDALS.

Thirteen of Number Met Death in Trying to Save Others.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 2.—Thirty-two awards of medals for acts of heroism were made by the Carnegie hero fund commission at its spring meeting. Seven silver and twenty-five bronze medals were ordered struck off for the fortunate ones, while monthly pensions aggregating $150, death benefits of $4,800 and special awards totaling $13,100 were made. The cash awards were to liquidate mortgages and other indebtedness and for educational purposes.

In thirteen instances the heroes met death either in the act or as a result of injuries received. Five rescues were made from injuries or death by trains, two from fire, one from electrocution, fourteen from drowning, four from suffocation in wells and tanks, five in a mine cave-in and one from a runaway.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Whodunnit Trail.

There are no pleasures where women are not—Marie de Romila.

In our own caravan, now pressing on for the general movement west of the Missouri, there was material for a hundred canvases. The world of our great western country was then still before us. A stern and warlike people was resolved to hold it and increase it. Of these west-bound I now was one. I felt the joy of that thought. I was going west.

The old trail to Oregon was laid out by no government, arranged by no engineer, planned by no surveyor, supported by no appropriation. It sprang, a road already created, from the earth itself, covering 2,000 miles of our country. Why? Because there was need for that country to be covered by such a trail at such a time. Because we needed Oregon.

We carried with us all the elements of society, as has the Anglo-Saxon ever. Did any man offend against the unwritten creed of fair play, did he stir duty when that meant danger to the common good, then he was brought before a council of our leaders, men of wisdom and fairness, chosen by the vote of all; and so he was judged and he was punished. At that time there was not west of the Missouri river any one who could administer an oath, who could execute a legal document, or perpetrate any legal testimony; yet with us the law marched pari passu across the land. We had leaders chosen because they were fit to lead, and leaders who felt full sense of responsibility to those who chose them.

At the head of our column, we bore the flag of our republic. On our flanks were skirmishers, like those guarding the flanks of an army. It was an army—an army of our people. With us marched women. With us marched home. That was the difference between our caravans and that slower and more selfish one, made up of men alone, which that same year was faring westward along the upper reaches of the Canadian plains. That was why we won. It was because women and plows were with us.

CHAPTER XXV.

Oregon.

The spell and the light of each path we pursued.

If women be there, there is happiness.

Twenty miles a day, week in and week out, we edged westward up the Platte, in heat and dust part of the time, often plagued at night by clouds of mosquitoes. Our men endured the penalties of the journey without comment. I do not recall that I ever heard even the weakest woman complain. Thus at last we reached the South pass of the Rockies, not yet half done our journey, and entered upon that portion of the trail west of the Rockies, which had still two mountain ranges to cross, and which was even more apt to be infested by the hostile Indians. Even when we reached the rugged trading post, Fort Hall, we had still more than 800 miles to go.

By this time our forces had wasted as though under assault of arms. Far back on the trail, many had been forced to leave prized belongings, relics, heirlooms, implements, machinery, all conveniences. The finest of mahogany blistered in the sun, abandoned and unheeded. Our trail might have been followed by discarded implements of agriculture, and by whitened bones as well. Our footsore teams, gaunt and weakened, began to faint and fall. Horses and oxen died in the harness or under the yoke, and were perforce abandoned where they fell. Each pound of superfluous weight was cast away as our motive power thus lessened. Wagons were abandoned, goods were packed on horses, oxen and cows.

We put cows into the yoke now, and used women instead of men on the drivers' seats, and boys who started riding finished afoot.

Gaunt and brown and savage, hun-

Ladies' Why Not Preserve

Your Youth and Beauty?

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of women as dull, faded, lifeless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, because notice is hereby given to the readers of The Gazette that Parolan Sage, the quick acting hair restorer, is now on sale in Janesville at the People's Drug Co., and is sold with a right guarantee at 50 cents a large bottle.

Since its introduction into America, Parolan Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless.

It cures dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

lamette, 300 miles yet farther, where there were then some slight centers of our civilization which had gone forward the year before.

Here were some few Americans. At Champeau, at the little American missions, at Oregon City, and other scattered points, we met them, we halted and we were halted by them.

Messengers spread abroad the news of the arrival of our wagon train. Messengers, too, came down from the Hudson bay posts to scan our equipment and estimate our numbers. There was no word obtainable from these of any Canadian column of occupation to the northward which had crossed at the head of the Peace river or the Saskatchewan, or which lay ready at the head waters of the Fraser or the Columbia to come down to the lower settlements for the purpose of bringing to an issue, or making more difficult, this question of the joint occupancy of Oregon. As a matter of fact, ultimately we won that transcontinental race so decidedly that there never was admitted to have been a second.

So we took Oregon by the only law of right. Our broken and weakened caravans asked renewal from the soil itself. We ruffed no drum, flattered no flag, to take possession of the land. But the canvas covers of our wagons gave way to permanent roofs. Where we had known a hundred campfires, now we lighted the fires of many hundred homes.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Debated Country.

The world was said, the garden was a wild.

The man, the hermit, slighted—till woman smiled.

Our army of peaceful occupation scattered along the more fertile parts of the land, principally among the valleys. Of course, it should not be forgotten that what was then called Oregon meant all of what now is embraced in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, with part of Wyoming as well. It extended south to the Mexican possessions of California. How far north it was to run, it was my errand here to learn.

I settled near the mouth of the Willamette river, near Oregon City, and not far from where the city of Portland later was begun; and builded for myself a little cabin of two rooms, with a connecting roof. This I furnished, as did my neighbors their similar abodes, with a table made of hewed puncheons, chairs sawed from blocks, a bed framed from poles, on which lay a rude mattress of hucks and straw.

From the eastern states I scarcely could now hear in less than a year, for another wagon train could not start west from the Missouri until the following spring. We could only guess how events were going forward in our diplomacy.

The mild winter wore away, and I learned little. Spring came, and still no word of any land expedition out of Canada. We and the Hudson bay folk still dwelt in peace. The flowers began to bloom in the wild meadows, and the horses fattened on their native pastures.

Summer came on. The fields began to whiten with the ripening grain. I grew uneasy, feeling myself only an idler in a land so able to feed for itself. I now was much disposed to discuss means of getting back over the long trail to the eastward, to carry the news that Oregon was ours. It was at this time that there occurred a startling and decisive event.

I was on my way on a canoe voyage up the wide Columbia, not far above the point where it receives its greatest lower tributary, the Willamette, when all at once I heard the sound of a cannon shot. I turned to see the cloud of blue smoke still hanging over the "surface" of that water. Slowly there swung into view an ocean-going vessel under steam and auxiliary canvas. She made a gallant spectacle. But whose ship was she? I examined her colors anxiously enough. I caught the import of her ensign. She flew the British Union Jack!

England had won the race by sea! Something of the ship's outline seemed to me familiar. I knew the set of her short masts, the pitch of her smokestacks, the number of her guns. Yes, she was the Modeste of the English navy—the same ship which more than a year before I had seen at anchor off Montreal!

News travels fast in wild countries, and it took us little time to learn the destination of the Modeste. She came to anchor above Oregon City, and well below Fort Vancouver. At once, of course, her officers made formal calls upon Dr. McLaughlin, the factor at Fort Vancouver, and accepted head of the British elements thereabouts. Two weeks passed in rumors and counter rumors, and a vastly dangerous tension existed in all the American settlements, because word was spread that England had sent a ship to oust us. Then came to myself and certain others at Oregon City messengers from peace-loving Dr. McLaughlin, asking us to join him in a little celebration in honor of the arrival of her majesty's vessel.

Here at last was news; but it was news not wholly to my liking which I soon unearthed. The Modeste was but one ship of 151. A fleet of 15 vessels, 400 guns, then lay in Puget sound. The watch-dogs of Great Britain were at our doors. This question of monarchy and the republic was not yet settled, after all!

I pass the story of the banquet at Fort Vancouver, because it is unpleasant to recall the difficulties of a kindly host who finds himself with jarring elements at his board. Precisely this was the situation of white-haired Dr. McLaughlin of Fort Vancouver. It was an incongruous assembly in the first place. The officers of the British navy attended in the splendor of their uniforms, glittering in braid and gold. Even Dr. McLaughlin made brave display, as was his wont, in his regalia of dark blue cloth and shining buttons—his noble features and long, snow-white hair making him the most lordly figure of them all. As for us Americans, lean and brown, with hands hardened by toil, our wardrobes scattered over a thousand miles of trail, buckskin tunics made our coats, and moccasins our boots. I have seen some noble gentlemen so clad in my day.

It was, as may be supposed, late in the night when our somewhat discordant banquet party broke up. We were all housed, as was the hospitable fashion of the country, in the scattered log buildings which nearly always hedge in a western fur-trading post. The quarters assigned me lay across the open space, or what might be called the parade ground of Fort Vancouver, flanked by Dr. McLaughlin's four little cannons.

As I made my way home, stumbling among the stumps in the dark, I passed many semi-drunken Indians and voyageurs, to whom special liberty had been accorded in view of the occasion, all of them now engaged in singing the praises of the "King George" men as against the "Bostonians."

I was almost at my cabin door at the edge of the forest frontage at the rear of the old post, when I caught glimpse, in the dim light, of a hurrying figure, which in some way seemed to be different from the blanket-covered squaws who stalked here and there about the post grounds. She passed steadily on toward a long and low log cabin, located a short distance beyond the quarters which had been assigned to me. I saw her stop up to the door and heard her knock; then there came a flood of light—more light than was usual in the opening door of a frontier cabin. This displayed the figure of the night walker, showing her tall and gaunt and a little stooped; so that, after all, I took her to be only one of our American frontier women, being quite sure that she was not Indian or half-breed.

This emboldened me, on a mere chance—an act whose mental origin I could not have traced to stop up to the door after it had been closed, and myself to knock thereat.

I heard women's voices within, and as I knocked the door opened just a trifle on its chain. I saw appear at the crack the face of the woman whom I had followed.

She was, as I had believed, old and wrinkled, and her face now, seen close, was as mysterious, dark and inscrutable as that of any Indian squaw. Her hair fell heavy and gray across her forehead, and her eyes were small and dark as those of a native woman. Yet, as she stood there with the light streaming upon her, I saw something in her face which made me puzzle, ponder and start—and put my foot within the crack of the door.

"There!" I said, quietly, "tell me the name of the woman who is in there."

"There!" I said, quietly, "tell me the name of the woman who is in there."

ROOSEVELT GIVES NOBEL LECTURE

I believe that these treaties can cover almost all questions liable to arise between such nations, if they are drawn with the explicit agreement that each contracting party will respect the other's territory and absolute sovereignty within that territory, and the equally explicit agreement that (aside from the very rare cases where the nation's honor is vitally concerned) all other possible subjects of controversy will be submitted to arbitration. Such a treaty should insure peace until one party deliberately violated it. Of course, as yet there is no adequate safeguard against such deliberate violation, but the establishment of a sufficient number of these treaties would go a long way towards creating a world opinion which would finally find expression in the provision of methods to forbid or punish any such violation.

Work of Hague Tribunal.

Secondly, there is the further development of The Hague tribunal, of the work of the conference and courts at The Hague. It has been well said that the first Hague conference framed a Magna Carta for the nations; it set before us an ideal which has already to some extent been realized, and towards the full realization of which we can all steadily strive. The second conference made further progress; the third should do yet more. Meanwhile the American government has more than once tentatively suggested methods for completing the court of arbitral justice, constituted at the second Hague conference, and for rendering it effective. It is currently to be hoped that the various governments of Europe, working with those of America and of Asia, shall set themselves seriously to the task of devising some method which shall accomplish this result. If I may venture the suggestion, it would be well for the statesmen of the world, in planning for the erection of this world court, to study what has been done in the United States by the Supreme court. I cannot help thinking that the Constitution of the United States, notably in the establishment of the Supreme court and in the methods adopted for securing peace and good relations among and between the different states, offers certain valuable analogies to what should be striven for in order to secure, through The Hague courts and conferences, a species of world federation for international peace and justice. There are, of course, fundamental differences between what the United States Constitution does and what we should ever attempt at this time to secure at The Hague; but the methods adopted in the American Constitution to prevent hostilities between the states, and to secure the supremacy of the federal court in certain classes of cases, are well worth the study of those who seek at The Hague to obtain the same result on a world scale.

Undue Growth of Armaments.

In the third place, something should be done as soon as possible to check the growth of armaments, especially naval armaments, by international agreement. No one power could or should act by itself; for it is undeniably undesirable, from the standpoint of the peace of righteousness, that a power which really does believe in peace should place itself at the mercy of some rival which may at bottom have no such belief and no intention of acting on it. But, granted sincerity of purpose, the great powers of the world should find no insurmountable difficulty in reaching an agreement which would put an end to the present costly and growing extravagance of expenditure on naval armaments. An agreement merely to limit the size of the navies would have been very useful a few years ago, and would still be of use; but the agreement should go much further.

Finally, it would be a master stroke if those great powers honestly bent on peace would form a league of peace, not only to keep the peace among themselves, but to prevent, by force if necessary, its being broken by others. The supreme difficulty in connection with developing the peace work of The Hague arises from the lack of any executive power, of any police power to enforce the decrees of the court. In any community of any size the authority of the courts rests upon actual or potential force; on the existence of a police, or on the knowledge that the able-bodied men of the country are both ready and willing to see that the decrees of judicial and legislative bodies are put into effect. In law and wild communities where there is violence, an honest man must protect himself and until other means of securing his safety are devised, it is both foolish and wicked to persuade him to surrender his arms while the men who are dangerous to the community retain theirs. He should not renounce the right to protect himself by his own efforts until the community is so organized that it can effectively relieve the individual of the duty of putting down violence. So it is with nations. Each nation must keep well prepared to defend itself until the establishment of some form of international police power, competent and willing to prevent violence as between nations. As things are now, such power to command peace throughout the world could best be secured by some combination between those great nations which sincerely desire peace and have no thought themselves of committing aggressions. The combination might at first be only to secure peace within certain definite limits and certain definite conditions; but the ruler or statesman who should bring about such a combination would have earned his place in history for all time and his title to the gratitude of all mankind.

Smokestacks and Education. That 5,000 or 6,000 men and their families should have built for themselves so well appointed a city as Spartanburg, S. C., seemed surprising, writes Arthur Page, in the World's Work. The president of one of the banks told me the reason: "Two things made it," he said, "smokestacks and education."
